Mount St. Mary Academy, founded by the Sisters of St. Mary of Namur, is a Catholic, private, college preparatory school for young women. Within a nurturing and academically challenging environment, the Academy strives to develop the whole person. Guided by our Catholic tradition, and rooted in Gospel values, we educate young women dedicated to lifelong learning, moral integrity and service to and acceptance of others.

Continuing the Tradition

As the Night of the Dragon Chrysalis Auction draws near, Mount St. Mary’s has been inspired to honor our dynasties.

What is a dynasty exactly? A dynasty is a group of MSM alumnae with family connections – both close (mothers and daughters) and distant (cousins and in-laws). Like the ruling families of China, our dynasties are families of strength, character and tradition. Some dynasties may be as small as three or four members while others are huge! But in true Mount character, we honor and value all of our families.

There is no event that spotlights our dynasties quite as well as Junior Ring Ceremony. On December 8, the Class of 2011 received their rings at the Feast of the Immaculate Conception Mass. While older alumnae may have received their rings without much pomp and circumstance, more recent graduates will remember their ring ceremony as one of the most significant events of their high school years.

For a student who is part of an MSM dynasty, the ring presentation is particularly significant. Family members are invited to the stage to present the ring, tied to a single long-stem red rose, to the next generation of their dynasty.

Here are a few of our MSM dynasties at our recent Junior Ring Ceremony:

Dear Sister Alumnae,

In the summer following my 6th grade year, my father took me for a short car ride up Delaware Avenue to a dark, imposing castle. I had no idea where we were or why we were there. He rang the bell at the huge glass doors and the Fortress admitted and seated us in a small reception room.

Sr. Thomas Aquinas met us to interview me and show us around. This was to be my new school – that was the shock of a lifetime to my 12-year-old self! I had spent seven happy years in the public school system in Tonawanda and had no idea what was in store for me.

I can't say it was love at first sight (actually I was scared stiff – what kind of a place has teachers with clickers!?) or a totally smooth transition (who ever heard of diagramming sentences or cared how neat my penmanship was – Sr. Mary Ambrose, that's who!) but I can tell you, I grew to adore being at 3756 Delaware Avenue.

The most comforting factor of my transition was that I was joining my cousin Marilyn in the 7th grade class at Mount St. Mary Academy's Grade School. As it turns out, I was privileged to share two years of grammar school and four years of high school with her. Our Aunt Sally and Marilyn's mother, my Aunt Peggy, were Mounties, as were my cousins, Nancy and Ann.

During my high school years, I met a young girl from my area, Rosemary Riggie, who became one of my best friends. Rosemary and I practically lived at MSM during our high school years. We came to school early – very, very early – and stationed ourselves in the Biology Lab. Our breakfast fare shared the refrigerator shelf with the Agar cultures – thank you, Sr. Mary Celestine! We cooked our eggs and toasted our toast over the Bunsen burners as we listened to the sisters sing their morning office. We stayed late – very, very late – and were involved in everything we could be involved in. I, who had four brothers and no sisters, fell in love with the all-girl environment. Imagine a school for young women, by women, all focused on women – nirvana!

In the years Rosemary and I spent together, I met her brother Joe, who later became my husband. Joe attended the Junior and Senior Prom as my escort. In those days we had a mandatory punch party in the Sisters’ dining room so the Sisters could inspect our dresses and our dates. Joe has since earned the record for the most proms and dances attended by a male, including the proms of two of our daughters – Sarah and Maggie, who are also Mounties.

Back in the 1960s, I never would have imagined that I would return to MSM as a member of the faculty – Dean of Students, Religion Teacher, Computer Teacher and eventually Principal. How lucky I am that the place I adored as a young girl could become my home again. I shared my time here with my daughters, Sarah and Maggie, and my niece, Rebecca. I have had the very great pleasure of presenting them all with their school rings.

Aunts, cousins, sister-in-law, daughters, niece – fabulous women all. How fortunate I am to have shared this heritage with them. I now have three granddaughters. I hold fast to the dream of their attending MSM and look forward with great anticipation to presenting them their school rings. The Dynasty grows…

May God bless you.

Dawn M. Riggie (1971)

Today's student still receives the same Mount St. Mary's ring that students did back in the 1930s and 1940s. Though the gold ring is now available in a smaller size, the emblem on an onyx backing is still exactly the same. The emblem depicts the letters MSM and the symbols of St. Mary, a crown symbolizing Mary, Queen of Heaven, a lily representing Mary's purity and the star of Bethlehem.

For some, affording a new MSM ring is not possible. If you have an MSM ring that you wish to donate to one of our girls, please contact Alexandra Kogler Fussell (1996) at (716) 877-1358 ext. 414 or afussell@mt-st-marys.org.
Choosing to Excel

Returning alumnas often comment that despite the many changes, the Mount is still very much the same. Yet one thing that is definitely not the same is the degree of choice available to today's students.

An incoming freshman's schedule may be similar to the course load of years past – Biology, Math, Global, English, Gym, Health, Religion, and Foreign Language. By sophomore year, MSM students start to choose their academic path, by selecting a number of electives to round out their studies.

Not the case in years gone by! In the 1940s, a core curriculum was set for the first two years, including Latin – a requirement then, but a foreign language option now. Students took Religion, General Science, Algebra, History, Civics, Chorus and English, which included a regular session of Elocution during which the girls recited poems and practiced public speaking.

Mary Almeter (1948) remembers that it wasn't until Junior and Senior year that students had a choice of one or two electives. As a senior, she and her friends chose to take Latin III, a course usually taken by Juniors.

“Latin class followed gym, and in those days we had to wear stockings,” Mary recalls. “We used to try to get away with keeping our stockings rolled down beneath our socks, but Sr. Mary Peter Mulvihill caught us. She would say, ‘Here come the lofty seniors who think they don't have to follow the rules!’”

By the 1960s, there was one major choice that MSM students needed to make – did they wish to pursue a business or domestic track?

Patricia Weisbeck Collard (1963) always knew she wanted to be a nurse, so she concentrated on fulfilling the science and math requirements for nursing school. She used her few electives to pursue the business track which would prepare her for a college career. Business classes included Introduction to Business, Typewriting and Business Law.

“My senior year I was allowed to take a homemaking class,” Pat says. “I took all semester to make one dress!”

The Mount began offering more electives in the 1970’s as career opportunities expanded for women. These electives weren't just fun and games.

“Education became broader,” says Sr. Carol Ann Kleindinst (1967), Assistant Principal for Academics. “We had to educate to broaden young women’s view of the world. We had to help them identify career paths beyond the traditional Liberal Arts fields.”

Today's Mount students have a wealth of options, a growing trend in most high schools that helps students advance upon reaching college. Students can choose electives from every academic discipline, many of which carry college credit.

Courses for today’s Mounties include Journalism, Accounting, and Bioinformatics, which prepare students for specific careers while also supplying life skills valuable to any young woman entering the professional world. Fine arts electives such as instrumental band, dance and visual arts nurture creativity and well-roundedness.

Unlike students of the 1960s, today's student is counseled in elective choices. Each year, students meet with one of MSM's two Guidance Counselors, receive a course catalog and select their courses online.

“High school students today are looking for a broad choice of electives to experience a range of academic disciplines,” says Assistant Principal for Institutional Advancement, Julie Rosenecker Wojick (1985). “Prospective students are excited about the amount of options available to them, everything from Film Studies to Forensic Science.”

Graduates of the 1960s could choose to study Homemaking.

Around the School

It’s been many years since the Mount has performed a spring drama, but Lindsey Lauren Visser (2010) and Maria Fahs (2010) have decided to bring back the tradition. The two have adapted Shakespeare’s “A Midsummer Night’s Dream” to the modern day and will produce and direct their version -- “A Midsemester Night's Dream” -- in mid-April.

On February 2, National Honor Society inducted 36 juniors who have exhibited strength in character, service, leadership and scholarship. Inductees included:

- Emily Bork, sister of Laura Catherine Bork (2007)
- Laura Brick, daughter of Mary Anne Kaminska Brick (1979) and granddaughter of Geraldine Tuyn Brick (1959)
- Petrina D’Angelo, daughter of Tristan Nagel D’Angelo (1985)
- Claire Dirrigl, sister of Maggie Dirrigl (2008)
- Emily Glasgow, granddaughter of Suzanne Marzolf Glasgow (1958)
- Ashley Gluszek, cousin of Debra Hall Stonish (1971)
- Jessica Harms, daughter of Darlynn Ruiz Harms (1982) and granddaughter of Linda Felthousen Gottle (1965)
- Margaret Herdzik, sister of Katherine Herdzik (2006)
- Jessica Hinaman, granddaughter of Rosemary Perry Hinaman (1954)
- Michaela Kowalick, granddaughter of Suzanne Roth Vorburger (1949)
- Susan Kratzer, sister of Lisa Kratzer (2007)
- Megan Lawrence, daughter of Peg O’Brien Simons (1978)
- Joan McDonough, sister of Katherine McDonough (2008)
- Rosemarie Paternostro, daughter of Suzanne Maiorana Paternostro (1980) and sister of Cristina Paternostro (2007)
- Danielle Stewart, granddaughter of Mary Raymond Stewart (1948)

The first week of February marked a cause for celebration. With mid-term exams over, MSM students turned their thoughts to School Spirit week, a Student Council-sponsored series of events to display Mountie pride. Students enjoyed costume days with themes of Twin Day, Pajama Day and Superhero Day. Highlights of the week included a Carnival, Pep Rally, Dodge Ball Tournament, Lip Synch Contest and Winter Semi-Formal, which capped off the week on Friday night.

News from the Alumnae
